Outlook and Strategy

While the BSP continues to warn upside risks on inflation due to the effects of adverse weather conditions on agricultural production, the outlook on local inflation materially improved following President Marcos' approval of the tariff reduction on rice from 35% to 15% until 2028, and on a few other commodities. As we wait for details on its implementation, the market will likely continue to be volatile. Nevertheless, given the better outlook on inflation, it can provide some opportunity to increase exposure on the bond market.
